ORDER EXTENDING TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER

On February 19, 2025, this Court entered a Temporary Restraining Order prohibiting Defendant, the Indiana State Health Commissioner, from disclosing certain termination of pregnancy reports as those reports are exempt from disclosure under the Indiana Access to Public Records Act. The Court further ordered that the temporary restraining order would remain in effect for ten days, unless extended for good cause. On February 25, 2025, Plaintiffs moved for an order extending the temporary restraining order until March 12, 2025, or a reasonable time thereafter, because all parties and the Court are not available for a hearing on Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction request prior to March 12, 2025.

Having considered Plaintiffs' motion to extend the temporary restraining order pending resolution of the preliminary injunction, the Court hereby finds, in accordance with Indiana Trial Rules 52 and 65(D), that good cause exists to extend the temporary restraining order beyond 10 days because all parties and the Court are not available for a hearing on the Plaintiffs' request for a preliminary injunction until March 12, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, the Court EXTENDS effective date of the the temporary restraining order until the completion of the preliminary injunction hearing, currently set for March 12, 2025, at 9:00 AM.

ENTERED at Indianapolis, Indiana, on February 25, 2025, at 4:30 PM.
